DISTRIBUTER UNDER FIRE

Deputy Attorney-General Begins His Effort to Show Hand of a Monopoly.

New York city this morning will pay $24,000 more for its milk, the price levied upon it for peace between the dairymen and the distributers. With the establishment of a 12 cent price for Grade a quarts the Attorney General's office Mrs. Brownie Weaverson Bewill strive to break down what it regards as a monopoly. Primary steps in this direction instituted yesterday by Merton E. Lewis, Deputy Attorney-General, were frustrated partly by William N. Dyckman, appointed by Attorney-

General Woodbury as referee to take oridence on milk supply and distribution.

Mesars. Dyckman and Lewis fell into conflict on the latter's charge that the high coat of milk is due to a combination of the distributers. The Deputy Attorney-General offered to show evidence to bear out his charge, but the referee shut him off with the summa-

"I cannot possibly see any combination."

He gave another setback to the Deputy Attorney-General again when he would not admit comparative figures on the yearly increases in cost.

In a similar suff hear last pure that sufficiently a similar of the pury disagreed. James J. Walker, counsel for Mrs. Weaverson, who is 64 years old, told the jury yesterday that she was a "pal" of her husband before Mrs.
Frame became acquainted with them.

Mr. Lewis will strive to show that there is collusion if not actual criminal conspiracy among the distributers.

Hints at Corruption.

John J. Dillon, Commissioner of Foods and Markets, proposed as a remedy for this concentration that a public pasteurisation plant be built by State appropriation. This he contends would break the monopoly maintained by the main dealers and would give the small producers opportunity to market their milk directly to consumers. 8—That this condition was brought about through a conspiracy.

Much of Mr. Lewis's official energy is to be devoted to showing that pasteuring attoin regulations were devised for self-shah and probably corrupt motives. Acting Warden Calvin Derrick, who took up his post when Thomas Mott Osborne resigned last week, was not in the prison at the time, but was in New York. In his absence Principal Keeper Fred Dorner sent out the slarm, blowing the huge siren whose warning blast has become a familiar note in the same principal state. has become a familiar note in the ears of the community of late and telephoning to the police nearby. followed the recommendation of the strikers' committee.

The committee had met with John Moffit and John A. Smyth, investigators sent by the Department of Labor, in the morning. Mr. Moffit reported that George B. Hennessy, superintendent of the blant, had expressed a willingness.

The only thing they found was the abandoned truck. In the tool chest reposed the rubber cost and uniform can of the "guard," with six sets of the gray clothing the convicts wear. Apparently there had been a complete change of garments hidden in the tool chest for them before they started out. It was at first thought that only the two men seen in the truck had escaped.

The truck, it became known, was used exclusively inside the prison walls and should not have been per-mitted to leave the gate without scrutiny. "Only utter carelessness and neglect on the part of one who should have

State Superintendent of Prisons James Carter, when notified of the escape, said the frequency of such incidents recently may make a change in the prison policy

"The superintendent naturally regrets the escapes at this time, because it must of necessity cast discredit on the prevailing system of government at Sing Sing," he said. "If escapes continue and the freedom and privileges enjoyed by the immates at Sing Sing are not workable, different policies, principles and discipline must prevail."

The superintendent detailed a man from his office to investigate. Warden lerrick expressed himself as hopeful of getting the men back quickly. He has gone to New York after a visit with East 133th street.

"I suppose the reason why these men escaped was that they believed they would not get a square deal," he said, adding that that was undoubtedly the feeling of many of the convicts since it is suspected that Gov. Whitman and Superintendent Carter may abolish the Mattal Wolfare Leasure.
